NEW PRISON FOR FIRST OFFENDERS

—:O:—

Kingston, June— On a beautifully wooded Frontenac farm, not far from the rippling blue waters of Lake Ontario, nine Toronto and Ottawa stock brokers are paying the penalty for crimes which deprived thousands of clients of lifetime savings and left a trail of misery and grief throughout Canada.

Their translation from bustling brokerage offices and hectic stock exchanges to this placid and peaceful countryside followed the dramatic debacle of eighteen months ago, and the subsequent startling revelations of bucketing frauds and, other knavery, disclose of which shocked the Toronto financial district.

To the casual observer, the broad acres which erring erstwhile brokers are assisting to cultivate while trying to forget the spectacular stock market crash in which huge fortunes were lost are just as attractive as any in this picturesque part of Ontario. Graceful elms and lovely maples afford grateful shade to the weary wayfarer, while along the eastern boundary of the prison farm the Cataraqui Creek meanders through sweet smelling corn and clover fields. The song of birds and the scent of wild flowers add enchantment to the scene.

And It's a Prison

By prison authorities, the gently rolling reserve of a thousand acres with its splendid soil and excellent drainage, its magnificent stone residences and easy access to the outside world by lake, rail and highway, is considered an ideal retreat for "preferred class" who have been sentenced by learned Ontario Judges to terms in Kingston Penitentiary. So to this delightful and restful haven have been brought many first offenders. The inmates—they do not go by the more plebeian term prisoners—include stock brokers who cheated their clients in their unlawful conspiracy to amass millions, municipal treasurers and bankers who embezzled and gambled with the funds of employers and taxpayers, men of some education and good family who are expected to go straight after they have served their sentences. Here are found none of the hardened criminal class, gunmen, cut throats, bandits and slayers.

No Firearms

The "preferred class" penitentiary reserve is situated at Collin's Bay, a few miles west of the City of Kingston, on the Bath Road and a considerable distance from the Portsmouth Penitentiary, where the dangerous criminals are incarcerated. At the Collin's Bay Farm

HANDS AND THEN SOME

—:O:—

Marvin Owen's hands are taking their place in the museum of sport with Primo Carnera's feet. Marvin is the new Detroit Tiger shortstop whose sensational playing has made him the talk of the major leagues. Those hands of his can cover a lot of territory as he proves by holding seven baseballs in his mitt at one time.

Axel McGregor's brother says that if he had a hand like that he would not starr for Leonard Hill another day but would go down and play the season out with the Canal Flat Angels.

REAL CIRCUS CALF

—:O:—

Brockville, Over 250 people have already called at the farm of Edward Kennedy, Kemptville, for thepurpose of seeing the calf, now six weeks old, that has two tongues in one mouth, and a second mouth with another set of teeth and a tongue, Kennedy has refused several offers for the animal..

—::O::—

CAMERONIAN BROKE BOOKMAKERS

—:O:—

Cameronian's victory in the Epsom Derby was a death blow to many bookmakers who had accepted thousands on the Dewar colt at odds ranging from 33 to 1 to 7 to 2. More than 50 bookmakers at Epsom were unable to meet their obligations and fled from the course as Cameronian's number was posted. Dozens of others shut up shops in the enclosure before the last race. It is believed that several bookmaking syndicates protected themselves by buying an interest in sweepstakes tickets on the winner, Fifteen of the welchers at Epsom wre apprehended by the police, There was one gang, though that put through something new in the way of fraud. They rigged up a fake totalisator, where over $5,000 worth of bets were placed. They escaped during the excitement of the race.

—::O::—

CARNERA, TIRED OF 'SET UPS'

—:O:—

Long Beach, N Y— Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, is tired of fighting "set ups" and wants to try his chances against Jack Sharkey and other topnotch title contenders.

If Primo can defeat the first class fighters he wants to have the world's heavyweight boxing championship. If not, he will abandon boxing and return to his first love— wrestling, Primo if one is to accept the opinion of Carnera himself, and his manager, Leon See, can throw any heavyweight wrestler in the world in less than five minutes.

"You think I'm joking," Manager See told the United Press, "but really Primo is a far better wrestler than he is a fighter. He's too big for the others, and if they don't let us fight Sharkey we'll desert boxing. We want to be free to run our own affairs. We're tired of lawsuits and injunctions, and if Jimmy Johnston loses his appeal against the injunctions barring the Sharkey-Carnera bout, we're all through with boxing,"

See explained his questionable praise of Primo's wrestling ability by saying that Carnera has wrestled over 10,000 bouts as a carnival wrestler in Europe before he turned to boxing two years ago.,

—::O::—

THREE HOME RUNS

—:O:—

The hitting of three successive home runs by Rogers Hornsby at Pittsburgh tied the modern major league record of consecutive homers in one game.

The all time record for home runs in a single game if four, hit by Robert J Lowe of the Boston Nationals in 1894 anad by Ed J Delehanty in 1896.

Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth have hit three homers in a game on three occasions with Ruth getting two of his sets of three in world series games. Neither Gehrig nor Ruth, however, hit their homers successively.

Hornsby is the seventh player to hit three home runs in succession. Since 1884 the feat of hitting three homers in a game has been achieved 32 times, once by Hack Wilson Those who have hit three in a row are:

Adrian C Anson, Chicago National league, August 6, 1884.

George L Kelly, New York, National league, September 17, 1923

Carl Reynolds, Chicago, American league, July 2, 1930.

Earl Averill, Cleveland, American league, September 17, 1930.

Ieon Goslin, St Louis, American league, August 19, 1930.

Mel Ott, New York, National league, August 31, 1930.

Rogers Hornsby, Chicago, National league, April 24, 1931,

A NICE SUMMER DISH

—:O:—

During warm days when everyone loses their desire for "solid food" and the appetite is "finnieky" more attention than ever should be paid to the cooking of light, appetizing meals that will lend the required nourishment for bodily health.

Try this recipe for an especially nice summer dish.

SCALLOPED SALMON— 1 can of Salmon; 1 egg; 1½ cups milk; 3 tablespoons butter; Salt and Pepper; Paulin's Peerless Cream Sodas.

Butter a baking dish and cover the bottom with Paulin's Peerless Cream Sodas, crushed into fine crumbs. Moisten these with milk, a spoonful at a time. On this put a layer of finely shredded salmon and sprinkle with salt, pepper and small bits of butter. Cover with another layer of Peerless Soda crumbs, moistened with milk, then a layer of salmon and finish with another layer of Paulin's Peerless Cream Sodas, finely crumbled. Pour over this the egg beaten into a cupful of milk. Cover the dish and bake for about 30 minutes. The cover may be removed the last 5 minutes .

NEW PRISON FOR FIRST OFFENDERS

the guards carry no firearms or weapons of any kind, the guests those found at construction camps and all that separates them from freedom is a barbed wire fence, Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage. The boundary fence was erected more to keep marauders out than to prevent inmates from escaping. Such is the proud boast of Brigadier General W St Pierre Hughes, Superintendent of Canadian Penitentiaries, and brother of that illustrious Canadian soldier and Parliamentarian, the late Sir Sam Hughes.

General Hughes believes that the penitentiary has no right to exist if inmates discharged therefrom are not released better than when they entered. Every one who knows him or encountered during the Great War the kindly and humane acts of his brother, Sir Sam are housed in buildings similar to will understand the motive behind the establishment of the Collin's Bay Farm for first offenders. Here are no dark dungeons, no instruments of terror and torture.

It is a far cry from the dingy and musty prison cells of the Tower of London and the Old World jails into which minor offenders are cast and allowed to languish and die. It represents luxury and comfort compared with the filthy hovels Canadian prisoners of war knew in Germany, and a veritable paradise in comparison with present day places of detention in Soviet Russia, where the Kulaks—land owning farmers on their way to the conscript lumber camps—spend their days gnawing an old bone or prowl the city streets like starving dogs foraging for food in the garbage cans,

Regular Shower Baths

While strict discipline is maintained, inmates are permitted to converse with one another through out the day, and certain hours are fixed for smoking, entertainment and recreation. A gramophone is provided, concerts are held frequently and adequate provision is made for religious exercises. Motion picture shows are given occasionally, both at Collin's Bay and in the penitentiary at Kingston. Adequate hospital accomodation is provided at all institutions, and inmates have the privilege of regular shower baths.

Selection of the inmates who are to work on the Collin's Bay Farm is in the hands of the Warden and higher officials at Kingston penitentiary, the fundamental principle being that young or first offenders who were not committed for brutal or vicious crimes should be segregated from the hardened criminals.

Part of General Hughes's philosophy is that: "No success may be looked for where idleness and inefficiency prevail. There may be a chance for reform where work is provided, but idleness breeds despair, discontent and engenders viciousness which cannot be cured by punishment or solitude. Without sufficient and proper work, much of what may be learned in a penitentiary is not that which will make for efficiency or morality outside."

More than half of the three thousand inmates in Canadian penitentiaries are under 30 years of age and only one fifth of them are over 40.

The penitentiary officials, the Government and the Parliament of Canada have been so favorably impressed with the experience gained last year in the Dominion's first preferred class penitentiary at Collin's Bay that property has been purchased for a similar institution in connection with St Vincent de Paul penitentiary in the Province of Quebec.

HOME PAPER AND MERCHANT

—:O:—

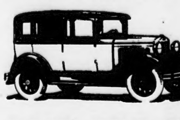

The Vulcan Advocate says:

More and more, the town merchant is appreciating the art of writing advertising copy. He studies his public and his goods, and injects into his advertising space, some snappy touch, some striking bargain that will bring customers and goods together, He realizes that it is not sufficient to carry good goods. He must keep the public informed of this and he must inform them in a way that will impress them.

Our local merchants are giving no small time to the construction of their advertising appeal, knowing that the space which they reserve in their home town paper, must contain an idea that "registers." It must draw trade.

Sporadic advertisements now and then have not the pulling power of the regular weekly ad. Many a merchant plans in his advertising for weeks ahead, playing up one line of goods one week, another the next week, according to the season. He follows a campaign system and checks his results. He has at last come to realize the value of consistent regular appeal.

REDUCTION IN WHEAT STOCKS ENCOURAGING

The Royal Bank in discussing the world wheat situation states that: "During the spring wheat supplies in Europe were substantially reduced and quickening in demand has been apparent. Germany has reduced the tariff on wheat from $1.62 to $1.29½ per bushel and increased the proportion of imported wheat which may be used with domestic grain. It has been estimated that Germany will require twenty million bushels of foreign wheat before the new crop is available. France has made two successive increases in the quota of foreign wheat, It seems evident that European countries will have to draw upon exporting countries and that there will be a well maintained demand during the balance of the present crop year.

Supplies available in exporting countries are more than ample, but the reduction in current stocks is encouraging. When navigation on the St Lawrence opened, a brisk demand from overseas importers developed, with the result that shipping has been exceptionally heavy from the Port of Montreal in May. Grain shipments for the latter half of May are reported to have been in excess of 25 million bushels. June bookings are also said to be heavy. These will include United States grain passing through Canadian channels, but the majority of the shipments will be of domestic origin, Pacific Coast shipments also continue active. Grain stored for many months at Victoria, Prince Rupert and New Westminister elevators is now moving. The total shipments from Vancouver during the current season to April 30th have amounted to 56 million bushels as against 38 million bushels last year. Two full cargoes aggregating 20,000 tons (700,000 bushels) are being shipped from the Victoria elevator Total visible stock of Canadian wheat amounted to 150 million bushels at the middle of May. This was a reduction of 30 million bushels in four weeks and was 20 million bushels less than the amount in storage at that time last year.

There is a heavy surplus in the other principal wheat exporting countries. The surplus stock in the United States amounts to approximately 250 million bushels, a large part of which is reported as controlled by the United States Federal Farm Board. During the first ten months of the present crop year exports of wheat and flour aggregated less than 110 million bushels. During February, March and April, shipments from the United States averaged less than 5 million each month as compared with nearly 17 million bushels from Canada. Somewhat heavier shipments have been made during May, but early deliveries of new crop wheat will commence in June and it is not considered probable that there will be heavy exports of the Farm Board wheat in the face of these deliveries. These old supplies, however, will continue to overhang the market and have a depressing influence upon world prices.

Stocks in Argentina and Australia are estimated at about 115 million bushels and 70 million bushels respectively. Shipments continue to be heavier than last year. The depreciation of currency in each of these countries gives them an added advantage in the export market, but the need for credit balances abroad may lead to some distress shipments.

The situation in the Danubian countries and in Russia remains somewhat uncertain. Probable exports from the Russian crop of 1,100,000,000 bushels in 1930 were estimated at 100 million bushels. Actual shipments to date have been less than 90 million bushels and Russian exports have failed to show any marked increase with the opening of spring.

Information available at the present time is hardly adequate to provide a reliable basis for estimating the probable size of the 1931 wheat crops in the principal producing areas. Weather conditions during the growing season will be of dominant importance. In general, however, reductions in acreage sown or to be sown insome countries appear likely to exceed increases in other countries.

::O::

The circus strong man rode out on horseback to challenge a farmer whose great strength had gained him a reputation. He entered the farmer's yard, tied up his horse and approached him gruffly

"Hey," he said. "I've heard a lot about you and have come a long way to see which is the better man."

Without answering, the farmer seized him, hurled him bodily over the fence into the road.

INCREASED TAXATION LIABLE TO UNITE OPPOSITION

Mr Bennett's comprehensive Budget and accompanying speech invited a comprehensive Opposition amendment. It has come, with full promise of a comprehensive Budget debate. If warm weather or a tired feeling does not drive the Parliamentarians to other pastures, the country seems likely to see an unusually late and long Budget presentation, followed by an unusually long session and late prorogation. The issues at stake justify the expenditure of time to thresh them out. Finance Minister Bennett challenged the Opposition throughout his speech by blaming the late Administration for economic conditions, for alleged extravagance in railway expenditures, and for the deficit he reported. It is not to be expected that the Opposition members will submit to this easily. On the other hand, Colonel Ralston's amendment carries the war into the enemy's camp with a plain intimation that the Government is put on the defensive for the policies laid down, and for the omission of policies anticipated as a result of the campaign program.

The Government is asked to show what it has done and is doing to improve the employment situation which had much to do with its election. There is room for several volumes of debates in the denouncement of it fiscal policy as likely to stagnate trade. The Liberals have an unparalleled trade record to which to point under a policy differing so widely from that of Mr Bennett that the forensic impact can be made prolonged and determined. The increases in taxation are liable to unite a stubborn Opposition while the assumption of tariff-making powers by Order in Council is so far removed from the principle of responsible government as known in Canada that members outside the Government party cannot well reconcile themselves to it with any show of loyalty to their constituencies.

The tempered speech of Colonel Ralston suggests that the Liberals believe they have all the elements of reasonableness on their side. It contained no vindictiveness, and neither sorrow nor anger. If its tone is to be the keynote of the Opposition debate, the coming dispute will be conducted on a high plane. It will lose nothing of public interest on this account. This is one of the momentous sessions in the history of Parliament. The issues are vital to the future of the country. It is important that ample time be taken to give the public a full insight into what may be expected from the pending legislation. —Toronto Globe

When the loser recovered his breath the farmer growled, "Have you anything more to say to me ?"

"No" was the reply, "but perhaps you'll be good enough to throw me my horse."

U F A SUNDAY OBSERVED AT WYNDHAM PARK

—:O:—

U F A Sunday was the this year observed at Wyndham Park on June 14th. with an estimated attendance of approximately three hundred farm people and town folk present. The communities represented Carseland, Dalemead, Blindcreek, Strathmore, Gleichen and Langdon.

Rev Longmire officiated, and Mr Norman Priestley, vice-pres. of the U F A was the speaker of the afternoon, Mr Priestley is a very engaging speaker. His long public career, his association with both the farm people and the organization of the United Farmers of Alberta, not only add color to his utterances, but make him a compelling speaker.

Taking his text from Psalms 103 v six, he said that they were assembled under the auspices of two great institutions, the church and the U F A, both of which were concerned in human welfare. He stated further that only when a great movement such as these maintained their idealism, would they continue as accepted instruments of progress. He concluded his address by saying that the profit motive must give place to service and co-operation.

A number of appropriate musical selections were rendered during the course of the service, which included a cornet duet by Dick and Vincent Bittle of Langdon. A trio by Mrs Hornstra and sons John and Charles and two other instrumental numbers by Hiram Melendy and George Peterson, respectively of Carseland and Langdon. Miss Muriel Hiatt of Dalemead, in her very capable manner officiated at the piano for the afternoon.

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent by the younger boys and girls on Saturday June 13th when Mr and Mrs Stone entertained at a picnic in honor of their son Bob on the occasion of his 10th birthday. • • • • •

The telling time of the year for the high school pupils is here again. Exams are under way for a large number of children in this district besides over twenty in town.

The much talked of baseball game between Meadowbrook and Rockyford was played on the afternoon of June 14th on the home diamond, with a good crowd of spectators in attendance. It was a very even game up to the ninth inning, the score being at 3 to 2, but owing to some argument the team went to pieces and let Meadowbrook bring in 7 runs making a final score of 9 to 2 in favor of the visitors. The lineup for the day was: Meadowbrook 2b McMillan; rf C Wray; catcher McArthur; 3b A Wilson; ss T Mauza; pitcher Bogsty; 1b Bussman; cf J Wilson and lf F Mauza; Rockyford— cf D Sangster; rf E Browns; catcher I Reish; 2b R Knight; 1b Kettenbach; ss E Ruppe; pitcher A Sangster; 3b L Knight; lf J Egbert

DELEGATE REPORTS ON YOUNG PEOPLES WEEK

—:O:—

Lincoln Wheeler president of the Dalemead Junior U F A and recently elected Junior director for the constituency of MacLeod gave his report of the Junior Conference at the meeting of the Dalemead local last Saturday evening.

Farm Young Peoples week at the University of Alberta is open to all properly qualifid farm young people in th province, although since its inception about ten years ago, it is the locals of the Junior U F A who have principally taken advantage of it.

Approximately 130 delegates from all parts of the province were represented at thhe Conference this year. Francis Fry of the Waskatanua Junior local who was first elected to the presidency in 1929 was re-elected this year. Miss Mollie Copeland of Lethbridge who for five years has held the joint position as director for Lethbridge and the Provincial vice-presidency was this year succeeded by a Junior delegate from High River, but with whose name we are not yet familiar.

As mentioned heretofore Lincoln Wheeler was elected director for MacLeod, succeding Miss Margaret Wight of Masappa, and we hope that he will get the utmost backing from home local. W congratulate him and wish him luck.

There are many more things which could be reported about University week, but space will likely not permit. Speaking contests, grain judging and Livestock judging and numerous other activities have been principal features of past Weeks, and we expect again featured this years event. Representatives from the U F A University and Government also have their place on the program; making this one of the foremost events of the year for the young people of Alberta. It should ought to prove a great incentive to increased activity amongst the locals of the Junior U F A CR

INDICATE STORY OF 'KIDNAPPING' FAKED

—:O:—

Ottawa, Ont.— Police investigating the sensational story of Geo W Stowe, Ottawa restaurant worker, that he was held captive for three days by kidnappers and then left to die in a swamp, declared on Wednesday that latest developments strongly indicated the man had in reality attempted suicide.

Mrs Stowe told the investigators her husband had been very despondent after losing nine dollars on a horse race last Friday The loss had left him penniless.

Discovered Tuesday lying face downward in a swamp, gagged and his hands loosely tied behind his back, Stowe declared he had been left there by an unknown trio because he refused to do a job for them.

Local people think that the above refers to one George Stowe who was resident of Strathmore for some months. He was employed as Chef for the Chilliville Restaurant and later joined Jo Giroux's crew of speed artists on track work.

After Stowe left the Town of Strathmore assisted his wife in returning to Montreal where she had relatives.

GLEICHEN DIST. MEETING

—:O:—

A few of the points dealt with in Mr Priestley's address at the Gleichen District Meeting held at Dalemead.

The size of the U F A had to be reduced slightly in the interest of economy.

Mr Priestley stressed the spirit of friendship and co-operation of the U F A in local affairs and pointed out the strength that we have maintained politically both in Edmonton and Ottawa. How our members at Ottawa are either admired or detested in the East which shows that they are very much alive.

How the concentrated study of financial reform presents many difficulties in arriving at a solution of the problems re Bennett's Budget and changes in the income tax favoring the large incomes.

Why co-operation is so strongly opposed by certain interests mainly because in co-operation the exploiter will have the minimum of profit.

He also stressed the duplication in service under the old plan, that agriculture can not pay.

The following resolution was passed and a copy sent to Hon R B Bennett and our member in Parliament.

"Resolved that this meeting of the Namaka-Gleichen District Association U F A assembled on June 3rd 1931 at Dalemead does commend the steady and persistent representation of agricultural conditions in Alberta made by members of the U F A group at Ottawa and does express its conviction that those representations were made with due regard to all the facts.

We further express our surprise that the Hon R B Bennett, Premier of Canada, himself a citizen of our Province should make a statement to the effect that there was no hardship being experienced when men have not gone contrary to economic law.

We respectfully draw his attention to the fact that many thousands of farmers who have followed methods approved by agricultural and governmental authorities for a lifetime are facing difficulties and burdens of debt from which there can be no escape despite their most earnest efforts. The volume of unemployment in our cities is striking evidence of the fact that the troubles and difficulties of the farming community are being increasingly reflected in the entire life of the Province."

Firestone Business Shows Big Increase

—:O:—

Hamilton— The most encouraging business news heard for some time has just come from the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company who reports that their profits for the first six months of its current fiscal year are double the earnings of the entire year of 1930.

Following a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, Harvey S Firestone, president, made the following announcement:

"Net profit of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company and all subsidiaries for the first six months ending April 30, 1931, after deducting depreciation, interest, taxes, etc. was $2,908,553.20, This compares with a profit of $1,541,034 for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1930."

Commenting on the foregoing announcement, E W BeSaw, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company of Canada Ltd. stated, "I am happy to confirm this announcement as far as the Canadian organization is concerned. Our business has shown a substantial increase in every province of the Dominion and we believe that the next six months will show a corresponding gain."

To what extent the Firestone company's record is a sign of the times rather than an individual achievement remains to be seen when the six months' statements of other industrials become available. Meanwhile there is no reason to suppose that Firestone alone has felt the improvement and the country is warranted in assuming that the report of this one manufacturer is indicative of other encouraging omens to come.

The showing of the Firestone Company is especially significant in that it represents, not what any one locality or group thinks about business, but rather the feeling of every nook and cranny of the country—big cities and small cities, villages and farms. The great tire companies sell their product everywhere and to every economic class. The wealthy owner of expensive cars, the owners of ancient flivvers, the owners of great bus and truck fleets, all unite to make the tire companies business good or bad as these buyers them selves feel prosperous or the reverse.

The tire companies have felt the depression more keenly than the manufacturers of other necessities, and now the first actual proof that business has quit the bottom and started the upward climb, comes from one of these big tire companies.
